

Man Make Music pride themselves on having delivered some of the most cutting edge, unpretentious and up front parties in London this year.

From illegal warehouse parties with 10k sound rigs to the most distinguished London night spots such as The End, MMM have rocked them all, showcasing the biggest and best names in UK underground dance culture.

2007 has seen MMM accumulate a swathe of support from London party-goers, performing artists and press hacks alike all impressed by the MMM team's uncompromising attitude to eclectic quality bookings with a welcoming good-time party spirit.

The MMM crew live and breath their parties, relentlessly trying to improve what they offer – be that showcasing new sounds, using new and unknown venues or just digging deep in the crates for those bangers old and new that will get people moving!

Not just a team of promoters but also an extended network of resident DJs (Gem the Brave, N-Type, Bruk), graffiti artists, VJs, producers and a loyal base of revellers, MMM hope to push on in 2008 making an ever larger mark on the London club scene, attempting to overcome the over-priced mediocrity that seems to be status quo.

MMM parties and collaborations, so far, have involved home made silent discos, mobile cinema tents, outdoor “block party” style venues always served with plenty of bass and lots of heat.

Their bookings this year have included a variety of the UK and Europe’s freshest underground talent from all quarters including Digital Mystikz, C2C (4x World DMC Team Champs), Radioclit, MJ Cole, Trevor Loveys, Toddla T, Mowgli, N-Type and Soul Jazz Soundsystem, and as a DJ crew they have supported names such as RPR Soundsystem, Sebo K, Surkin, Deadset and Guido Schneider.

“Pick of the week” - Guardian Guide

“Man Make Music is the first to join the dots between house, minimal, techno, dubstep, grime, d’n’b, jungle and garage. A popular, potent mix” – Metro

“Do. Not. Miss.” – Time Out

“It’s taken barely six months for the four uni friends who established Man Make Music (MMM) to turn their night into one of the most exciting and forward-thinking events in London clubland” - Metro

“MMM have been catching the clubbing cognoscenti's eyes with their eclectically-tailored parties in London that mash-up house, dubstep, electro, hip-hop, baile funk, grime, DnB and more in some of London's more out-of-the-way party spaces” - Dontstayin.com

“Had a blast... been wearing the t-shirt all over the shop!” – Trevor Loveys

“Man Make Music has been killing the crowds with their series of rocking warehouse throwdowns in east London” – Flavorpill

“What a sick party. Get me back again, I want to play at the next one!” – N-Type

“That party was absolutely ridiculous” – DJ Blakey

